

Fluorescence Lights Up New Addition to Library

Add Lounges For Smoking

Dedicated at Commencement time last June, the new Library addition is already in extensive use, library officials stated yesterday. Space is provided for 187 students in the reserve reading room, while the reserve shelves contain 6,000 books. Its main features are fluorescent lighting, venetian blinds, a sound-absorbing ceiling, and light oak furniture.

On the upper floors are enough stacks to double the library's present capacity. The west portion of the addition is only two stories high, but is designed to have two more stories added. Comfortable smoking rooms soon will be available for the men and women of the College.
